Cupid And Cost Of Living.

The relation between the cost of living and the activity in the issuance of marriage licenses is re-cognized as intimate, even though economists may not be able to express the subtle fact in a mathematical formula. But there can be no doubt that Cupid keeps an eye on the market prices of provisions, even though he may have little use for the tailor.

There can be no doubt that this sprightly promoter of felicity has abandoned the old fallacy, enticing but illusory, that two persons can live as cheaply as can one. Perhaps that untruth in domestic mathe matics took form at a time when girls were different in some material respects from the maidens of today. It was once the fad that they should delicate, without appetite, taking food after the manner of birds, with anemic results. They were more fond of cakes and sweetmeats than of prosale bread, potatoes, and beef. In those days might be more economy in the feminine menu, even allowing that cake costs more than bread. But the girl of today is brought up to be buxom and robust. There has been a reaction, both sensible and widespread. She takes proper pride in her appetite and in her muscles, which she has learned are not at all inconsistent with gentle sentiment. emulates her brothers in fondness for the open air and for suitable ath-letics.—Washington Post.

A Delicate Proposal.

A Scotchman who had survived three wives and who had a fourth in contemplation decided upon a delicate method of proposing to the latest object of his affections. AFTER FOURYEARS OF MISERY

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Baltimore, Md.—"For four years my life was a misery to me. I suffered from irregularities, terrible dragging sensations, extreme nervousness, and that all gone feeling in my stomach. I had given up hope of ever being well when I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Then I felt as though new life had been given me, and I am recommending it to all my friends."—Mrs. W. S. Foko, 2207 W. Franklin St., Baltimore, Md. The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has stood the test of years and to-day is more widely and successfully used than any other female remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, fiatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had falled.

If you are suffering from any of these almosts, don't give up hope until you have given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. She has guided thousands to health, free of charge.
